

George Francisco was selected as a 2006 North Carolina Super Lawyer by North Carolina Law & Politics magazine and Charlotte-The City Magazine. The top five per cent of North Carolina attorneys receive this honor each year.

Super Lawyers is an annual listing of outstanding lawyers who have attained a high degree of peer recognition and professional achievement. Selection as a North Carolina Super Lawyer is a multi-step process that takes approximately nine months. The foundation of the process is a survey sent to all lawyers in the state who have been in practice at least five years (more than 16,000 ballots are mailed to North Carolina lawyers). Attorneys are asked to nominate the best lawyers they have personally observed in action — whether as opposing counsel or co-counsel, or through other first-hand observation in the courtroom. The intent is to discourage lawyers from voting for others based purely on reputation. Each lawyer is given a score based on the number of votes he or she receives and the source of those votes. Votes received from lawyers in other firms count for significantly more points than votes received from lawyers in the same firm. In addition to the survey, Law & Politics researches credentials of nominees, assembles a blue ribbon review panel of leading attorneys from each practice area, directly contacts lawyers and law firm representatives, verifies data and conducts a good-standing review of candidates. More than 60 areas of practice are included.

In 2006, Law & Politics will survey more than two-thirds of the active attorneys in the United States to find Super Lawyers in 21 states.
